

About TAC

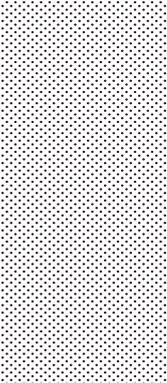

Tama Academic Consortium (TAC) is a university consortium formed by six universities in the Tama area.

Interlibrary access of the member libraries has been conducted, and students and regular faculty members of the member universities can freely use the six university libraries.

TAC

Library

Guide

Services

LENDING

You can directly visit the member university libraries and read and borrow books. You do not need to make preliminary contacts with or apply for the library. Please bring your student ID card with you and directly visit the library. A library card will be issued at the counter of the library you visit. When visiting a library, please check the opening days and hours in each library's website.

Ordering a book you wish to borrow (TLL Service)

You can order and borrow a book from a member library through the library of the university you belong to. You can cross-search the books in the member libraries using Comprehensive Search (TACOPAC) in the TAC library's website. Please go through the ordering procedure at your university's library.

Return

The books you borrowed from the member library you visited can be returned to your university's library. However, please make sure to return the books borrowed through the TLL Service (ordered books) to your university's library.

Sharing and use of database

You can use the database for which the member library you visit has concluded a contract. The database that you can use is limited to the ones listed on the List of the TAC Library Shared Databases on the TAC library's website. For using the database, please observe the rules of the library you visit.

Introduction of TAC Libraries

Kunitachi College of Music Library

5-5-1, Kashiwa-cho, Tachikawa-shi,
Tokyo 190-8520, Japan

Our library widely collects music-related materials.

- Music-related books: The library has Western music history, music aesthetics, and music entertainment in Japan and Asia.

- Musical scores: Scores for performance as well as the complete works of composers and series of scores that are essential for research, and facsimiles of autograph scores are lined up.

- Music-related magazines: Basic academic journals have been collected.

- Audio materials: The library has widely collected Japanese composers, opera, folk music, etc., with a focus on classical music.

- Video materials: There are also the records of opera, ballet, folk music, and our college's concerts.

International Christian University Library

10-2, Osawa 3-chome, Mitaka-shi,
Tokyo 181-8585, Japan

The building you will see on the right of a church after walking through the long row of cherry blossom trees is the ICU Library. It has the structure of buildings directly connected to each other and the entrance is on the side of the white building on the back. Christianity-related books and books of all fields have been widely collected. About half of these books are in the automatic library but you can freely retrieve books using OPAC in the library. About half of the books are Western books and the point that these books are arranged on the shelves along with Japanese books is also a feature of this library.

Tsuda University Library

2-1-1 Tsuda-machi, Kodaira-shi,
Tokyo 187-8577, Japan

Except for the Treasure Room and the private collection, the entire library is in the open-stack system. After registering the use at the circulation counter, you can pick up and choose reference books in the reading room as well as books, magazines, and newspapers by freely entering the book storerooms on the first to fifth floor. With regard to Japanese books and Western books, almost all of the fields are covered, but the book collection structure emphasizes humanities/social science and mathematics. In particular, the library focuses on English and American literature, linguistics, and materials on society, history, and women's issues in each country.

Tokyo University of Foreign Studies Library

3-11-1, Asahi-cho, Fuchu-shi,
Tokyo 183-8534, Japan

As a traditional university library of foreign languages, linguistic data from regions around the world has been stocked. Not only the language study/linguistics related materials but also humanities/social science fields are widely targeted for collection. Most of the materials are collectively arranged on the shelves according to languages, which is also a feature of our library. As the entire library is in the open-stack system, we would like you to freely go around the library and enjoy reading and picking up not only the materials you are looking for but also the materials in various languages that you do not usually come in contact with.

Tokyo Keizai University Library

1-7-34, Minami-cho, Kokubunji-shi,
Tokyo 185-8502, Japan

Tokyo Keizai University Library is an environment symbiotic library living in coexistence with the forest in Kokubunji Terrace and promoting CO2 saving. The library opened in April 2014 and received the Good Design Award in fiscal 2014. The numbers of books that can be stored in the library are 420,000 on the open-stack floor and 450,000 in the automatic library and books are managed by the IC tags. The book collection is mainly specialized books in the social sciences, such as economy, business science, legal studies, and communication, which account for about half of the collection, but materials in other fields, magazines, newspapers, and electronic materials are also widely collected.

Musashino Art University Museum & Library

1-736, Ogawa-cho, Kodaira-shi,
Tokyo 187-8505, Japan

Musashino Art University Museum & Library consists of library, art museum, folk art gallery, and image library and is a Complex Facility of Knowledge that can be used by interrelating diverse groups of materials. The library has mainly the specialized books and magazines in the fields of art, design, architecture, and imaging arts. The library also provides distinctive learning support by installing equipment that displays related books and information on the related exhibition simply by passing the book over the equipment (Book Touch) and masterpiece chairs that you can actually sit on.